Some photos of our learning

Hello Everyone,

This half term we have continued with our 'On the Move' topic building on the skills we were learning last half term; like practicing crossing the road, stopping, looking and listening and following instructions.

We have had some days that have been different like World Book Day where we painted our tops to look like Dalmatians, and some of us enjoyed painting our faces black too! There was Red Nose Day and British Science week. We really enjoyed experimenting in science.

The book we have been listening to is 'The Train Ride'. We have been practicing answering questions about the story and for Maths we have been sorting, matching and finding what's missing with objects from this story. In Art we explored different ways to make circles and decorated borders ready to put our work on display. In cooking we have been making and decoration cakes.

Of course, we have continued developing our English, Maths, communication and independent skills; enjoyed our visits to the hydro pool and inclusion based activities like playing games with peers.

Have a good Easter.
